

SPARTANBURG COUNTY MILLS.

South Carolina leads all the southern states in the manufacture of cotton goods and Spartanburg County leads South Carolina.

The beginning of the industry in the county, like a great many important events of the past, is somewhat clouded and obscure. Certain it is, however, that as early as 1815 colonists from New England, settled in this county on the banks of the Enoree and the Tugers and established small yarn mills. These were but a few degrees above the old-fashioned hand-spinning establishment, water power being used as motive instead of muscle. John Weaver erected a rather pretentious factory on Weaver Dam creek in 1829 and in 1830 Dr. James Prings established a mill at the present site of Glendale, and in 1850 known as Bivingsville.

In 1850 there were 21 cotton mills in the county, 18 corporations, and firms and $6,279,200 invested.

In 1896 there are 37 mills, 27 corporations and $9,450,000 invested.

ASSESSMENTS IN 1905.
According to the comptroller general's report for 1905, the total assessments for cotton mills in South Carolina, exclusive of Spartanburg County, is $29,996,944. Taking 60 per cent of the stock, which is the basis for assessment, it will be seen that the assessment of the mills of Spartanburg County would be $5,778,219, or approximately as much as the entire state besides Spartanburg.

The mills of Spartanburg County have been uniformly successful, only one or two instances of failure having been recorded. They pay dividends of 6 to 12 per cent, and often earn as high as 20 per cent.

ARCADIA MILLS.

by water power, has 18,500 spindles and 482 looms. The product is nainsook, lawns, etc., yarns 8's to 19's. L. W. Parker, of Greenville, is president and treasurer.

The community has excellent schools and churches and two stores. One run by the Apalache Mills Company and the other by the Mutual Mercantile Company.

A. Lison, of Spartanburg, is president and treasurer. The mill town has a population of about 400. The company operates a large general supply store. Rev. J. R. Aiken, of the Baptist Church, and Rev. W. H. Polk, of the Methodist Church, both of this city, preach there. Miss Emma Saand teaches the school.

BEAUMONT MILLS.
The Beaumont Manufacturing Co., began business in 1890 as a twine factory, but later on added yarns of all kinds and recently made the mill three times as large as it was originally and now manufactures twines, carpet warps, wide prints and specials. The capital is $150,000 (common) and $110,000 (preferred). It operates 19,360 spindles and 252 automatic looms.

J. H. Slean was organizer of the company and president until the time of his recent death, when D. L. Jennings was elected president and treasurer. The Presbyterians and Methodists have preaching there.

BLUE RIDGE HOSIERY COMPANY.
This mill was organized at Landrum in 1901 for the manufacture of hosiery. The capital stock is $29,999 and operates 95 knitting machines. The president is Joseph Lee of Landrum.

CLIFTON MILLS.
The first Clifton Mill was built in 1880. Since then four separate and distinct mills have been erected, No. 2 being about a mile down Paolet river from No. 1 and No. 3 on the Southern Railway about a mile above No. 1, which was completely destroyed by the freshet in June 1903, but which has been rebuilt on a commanding eminence, the power being electricity generated by water. The first mill was built on Paolet river at the site of the old South Carolina Iron Works. It is 7 miles from this city and the three Cliftons have a combined population of over 10,000. It is reached from the city by trolley cars every hour during the day. The track of the electric road from No. 1 to No. 3, which was completely destroyed by the 1903 freshet has not been rebuilt.

The Baptists, Methodists and Presbyterians all have flourishing churches in these villages and splendid schools are provided for the education of the young. The schools are in the charge of T. H. Branne. His assistants are: Misses Kate Magness, W. R. Littlejohn, Lola McClain, Sara Rivers and Corrie Seruzes.

The capital stock of the mills is $1,000,000 common and $300,000 preferred. They operate 86,800 spindles and 950 common and 1,650 automatic looms. The product is sheeting, drills and print cloth. The power is water, steam and electricity. Eldridge, Lewis & Co., are selling agents.

A. H. Twichell is president and treasurer. The common stock pays a dividend of 6 per cent, and the preferred 7 per cent.

The Clifton Manufacturing Company operates large stores at each of the mills. Besides, there are the following merchants: W. R. Boyd, Humphries Bros., Parrish, Sloan & Co.

D. E. CONVERSE CO.
This is the name of the mill at Glendale, which is located on the site of the first manufacturing plant in the county that turned cotton into cloth. It is 5 miles from the city, reached by trolley every hour. The present company was organized in 1870, succeeding the firm of John Bonmar & Co., who had conducted the mill after Dr. Bivings. D. E. Converse was president of the company until his death in 1899, and A. H. Twichell, who is now president and treasurer, was treasurer. It has been greatly enlarged and now has $500,000 capital, 27,392 spindles and 518 plain and 550 automatic looms. The product is heavy drills, print cloth sheeting. It pays 6 per cent, semi-annually.

The mill community at Glendale consists of about 200 inhabitants, schools, churches and nine stores, as follows: The D. E. Converse Co. Store, E. P. Howell, & Co., C. L. McKinney & Co., S. E. Sloan & Co., W. M. Walker, E. J. Henderson, groceries, E. J. Henderson & Co., saw mill, planing works and cotton gin.

proprietor of the "Bee Hive," Wholesaler and Retailer of Dry Goods, Clothing, Notions, Shoes, Hats and Millinery. The popularity and fame of this well known house is known in Spartanburg and the surrounding country for many miles. The motto of the firm, "The Cheapest Store in the South, has been well demonstrated in the eight years in which the firm has been established here. Mr. Collins has been its proprietor for four years, and in that time the popularity of the house has greatly advanced until at the present time it is leading all competitors in the city. This has been accomplished by its low prices and giving quality at the same time. The firm buys in the largest markets of the country, and in such large quantities that he is perfectly able to give his many patrons the advantage of his bargains which he obtains by doing so.

The firm occupies its own building, which is five stories high and fire-proof, and combines in all a general department store. The building is divided into four departments—the Crockery and House Furnishing Department is in the basement, the main and second floor is devoted to a general Retail Department, while the fourth floor is exclusively wholesale. Mr. Collins is, truly speaking, a self-made man and the best and most widely known merchant in Spartanburg, and deserves great credit for his progressive management. He was formerly in business in Charlotte for nine years before coming here, and at the present time, in connection with his store, conducts a branch in Greenville, S. C. The large business facturing industries of the city might people, and courteous treatment is accorded every customer. Mr. Collins devotes his time almost entirely to his Spartanburg store, making occasional trips to Greenville to see that the business there is maintaining the high standard he requires.
